Biography

Hongil Yoon is from Seoul, South Korea, lives and works between London and Seoul. He aims to deliver the feeling of isolation, evaluation and loss of identity in the ambiguity of memory that he senses in the digital culture. In his practice, the composition of space shows the metaphor for the uncertainty of the memory caused by the digital age. He had the solo exhibition The Blair Witch Project in Glasgow, UK. Also, he participated in various group exhibitions mainly in UK. In addition, he attained the J D Kelly Memorial Prize for the best first year in Fine Art by The Glasgow School of Art.
